See and be seen in eyewear that's hard to overlook.

Second Look

Vintage eyewear dealer and craftsman Nader Zadi treats each eyeglass frame as a unique piece of art. Zadi, who works by appointment out of a studio in New York's Upper East Side, takes old frames — all are pre-1950 in white or yellow gold — and refashions them into one-of-a-kind glasses, tailored to each customer's taste. → rareframes.com
